

Kara Pitt

My assignment was to walk around Hartford and take photos I liked. We didn't have to take photos of anything specific just pictures that we liked. I chose my photos because I wanted people to see how abandoned certain areas of Hartford are. I wanted people to see the weak and strong parts of the city, and show them what our state capital looks like. I took photos of the good and the bad. The more photos I took, I realized how people never stay here and always want to leave.