

Devin Higgins

I took this picture of the Gold Building because it's a wide tall building that reflects everything around it. In this picture you can only see the reflection of the sky because the lens was pointed up. It was just a cool building.

White Head High Way

I took this picture because I knew that when it was developed it would be an excellent picture and it would show some of the highways of Hartford.

Wall Profile, Albany Avenue, North End

I really did not know how this would come out. I never took a picture without aiming. Basically it was supposed to be an experiment but it worked nicely.